Cattle Feed And Chlorophyll Production Effort Begun On Two Sections At Hillsboro

Plowing Begun And Drivers Being Readied For Shipment And Installation

Plowing and preparation for seeding have begun on a 1,280-acre tract at Hillsboro Plantation for the announced production of planting to oats as fast as practical operation will permit, and two Heil drivers are being readied for installation in buildings already on the property, which was purchased from Hillsboro Plantation by Orlando Farms, Inc.

The property is that used by the Hillsboro outfit during the past several years for its own farming and packing operations, and includes what is known as the packing house used by them.

Mr. Carl Baumberger, who makes his home in Orlando, has spent considerable time in the Glades in recent weeks investigating the types of soil, and potential crops for cattle feed and chlorophyll, is Florida manager for this new project.

Experiments are being conducted at Hillsboro Station as well as those of individuals both in the Glades and along the East coast.

With large plantings on the muck at Zellwood and the installation of the largest feed deer known for use there, this organization will be able to make comparisons on the two muck soils.

The same interests are reported to have purchased several thousand acres in northeast Florida for future development along the same lines.

With two other feed dealers already operating in the muck lands, and that of Indian Trail Ranch taking material, both from the sand and muck, some substantial headway is being made towards the ultimate home production of cattle feeds both for dairy and beef production.

The work of the chlorophyll plant at Lake Worth in extraction from high content grasses and other crops encourages belief in this potential.

Rice, ragweed, oats and broomcorn as well as para and other grasses have been boosted as very high chlorophyll-content crops. To secure the crop which produces a high percentage of chlorophyll extraction as well as satisfactory tonnage per acre is now the aim of extensive efforts in the Glades.

PAR-TEE LINE

Country Club of the Everglades

Quite a few golfers have played the first eighteen holes of their qualifying rounds in the Everglades Amateur Golf Tournament. Coach Carl Ferrara of Clewiston is low so far with a 78. Larry Nash follows with a 78.

All golfers be sure and get your 36 holes qualifying rounds this week as Sunday, Oct. 5th is the dead line.

The course looks its best at this time of season, as the greens have been top dressed and the fairways are in good condition in spite of daily showers.

Rapley Weeks, a Day Chairman announces that a Ladies' Day will start Friday, Oct. 3rd. All ladies be there at 10 A. M. sharp.

Who could it be? She knows her way around on the golf course, but gets lost walking down from Jump-Off Mountain and turns around five miles south by way before reaching her destination. How about a gift—a compass when she and her husband vacation in the mountains again. We certainly wouldn't want to lose her for good!

Concert Sunday Delights Large Audience Here

Seen As Aid To Recruitment Drive By National Guard Unit In Glades

Highlighting the recruitment drive which has been under way for several weeks by the local National Guard Unit, a free concert was given here on Sunday afternoon by the 51st Infantry Division Band, Miami.

To an enthusiastic audience gathered in the new high school auditorium at 3:30 p. m., the band under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer Murray Austin, played a varied concert, including pieces of such different moods as a Latin American march, von Weber's Symphony Opus 26, and the Finale of Dvorak's New World Concerto.

The 40-piece band, which includes two excellent violinists among its other fine instrumentalists was roundly applauded. (Continued on page 5)

Hill, commentator, in "Freedom, USA"; Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray in "Bright Star"; Loren Macali and Humphrey Bogart in "Bold Venture"; and two other programs, "Philo Vance" and "Boston Blackie."

"We Have It On High Authority"

Our blessings come from unexpected places! Four prospective G I a d e bridges always allow us to fill space with some kind of story. We've got it here from high authority: from Mr. Alfred McKethan, Chairman of the State Road Department.

"In a week or ten days, the Road Board will make a statement about bridges in western Palm Beach County. Due to engineering changes, the letting cannot be made at this time."

"The meeting in Miami Friday, Oct. 3, is simply one for letting of contracts and not for hearing requests."

"It is our plan to present a concrete plan in regard to all four of these bridges at one time, which will be in a week or 10 days."

SALE OF PLANTS AND BAKED GOODS OCT. 11

G. W. "Doc" Crews, manager, Glades Chevrolet Company, presents to W. A. Slauter, high school driving instructor, keys to the new automobile that Glades Chevrolet has donated the local high school for use in the driver education course.

Youthful Drivers To Use Chevrolet In Training Class

How to start, stop, back up, handle a car in traffic, make signals, recognize certain engine difficulties, are only a few of the things that 39 Belle Glade high school students will be taught in the new course in driver education being offered in the high school curriculum for the first time.

The instructor of the course is Walter A. Slauter, who has had several years of experience in dual-control automobiles, teaching students (and adults) to drive without straining their nerves, and other people's nerves.

In all that time, Slauter has had to use the extra controls only three times.

From an idea originating with various civic clubs here in Belle Glade and Pahokee, the driver education course is being offered jointly by the two schools.

The instructor who spends alternate days with each school, has 40 students in Pahokee, and a class of 39 here.

The automobile used by the Belle Glade class is a brand new Chevrolet, donated by Glades Chevrolet Company.

Glades manager, G. W. Crews, says that he and Charlie Bolton of Belle Glade Motors, tossed a coin to see which would drive the automobile this time, and which next, Chevrolet won.

Next year, students will drive one of Bolton's Fords.

Textbook for the driver training is "Sportsmanship Driving," published by the American Automobile Association. Starting out with fundamentals, the book takes the student on to such subjects as fire traction, kinetic energy, the quirkies and fables of the miraculous internal combustion engine, mechanical and no less interesting, are pages dealing with "road" driving, and with the drunk behind the wheel.

Mr. Slauter, who himself has been a driver for 15 years, is a graduate of Bowling Green University, in Bowling Green, Ohio, where he took his B.A. in education in 1935.

His M.A. degree he received at Arizona State College in Tempe, in 1951. His driver certificate and training he took at Cleveland College, Ohio. A course in safety engineering this summer at Iowa State, Ames, Iowa, reinforces his already abundant qualifications. Before accepting the appointment here, Mr. Slauter previously taught four years in the Yuma Arizona high school, and a year in the Willard, Ohio, high school.

Married, and with two children, Mr. Slauter came to the Glades on August 20. Finding his housing situation in Belle Glade "very difficult," Mr. Slauter and his family live in Pahokee.

Nathan Mayo Gets FFA Award For Outstanding Work

Last week in Miami, at the biggest annual convention ever to be held by the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, the Honorable Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, presented the FFA Distinguished Service Award to Nathan Mayo.

The award, which is presented annually, is the highest honor conferred by the organization on a young man who has made exceptional contributions to the advancement of Florida agriculture.

The presentation was made by Governor LeRoy Collins at the annual dinner meeting last Thursday evening at Club Morisco in Miami.

Mr. Mayo received "exceptional" praise from Mr. Mayo's colleagues.

The award, which is presented annually, is the highest honor conferred by the organization on a young man who has made exceptional contributions to the advancement of Florida agriculture.

Speakers at the three-day convention held in the Casablanca Hotel, Miami last Wednesday through Friday, included the Honorable M. J. Givins, Under Secretary of Labor, who spoke on problems of farm labor; James E. Davis, Jacksonville, chairman of the board, Winn & Lovett Grocery Company, who keyed the convention to the theme, "The Future of the South"; Dr. Eric G. Sharville, associate plant pathologist, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., who spoke on "Pirates of Produce," fungus, moulds and other pests that do much to destroy produce in transit; William M. Pifford, director of University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, Sebring, Fla., who spoke on "Pirates of Produce," fungus, moulds and other pests that do much to destroy produce in transit; William M. Glades growers who attended the convention in honor of Mrs. Timmons, Lewis Friend, and Fritz Stein, members of the St. Paul's church, will gather at the church tomorrow at 10 a. m. for a joint Saturday in prayer, to recite the rosary and pledge themselves to Our Lady of Fatima. Friends are invited.

GLIDE CLOSING HOURS

RIGID GLASS FOR GOOD

Russell Fisher, proprietor of the well-known Glade night club, is not shelling out $1500 this year to the City of South Bay for an occupational license.

He, quietly closed the club this week, he has been in business at the Glade since Sept. 30, because he said it is now "impossible to make a go of it, owing to rising closing hours."

A South Bay City ordinance now in effect provides that several dealers in alcoholic beverages must close their places of business at midnight on Monday through Friday, and all day Sundays.

"And after all," Fisher says, "I started in business to operate a night club."

Fisher, who built the Glade 3 years ago, points out that it was the first exclusive night club to be opened in the Belle Glade-South Bay area. He says that in addition to his occupational license, he has received a contribution to South Bay City revenues to the tune of $35 a year for a juke organ, and $200 for water service, and about $1300 a year in the form of cigarette taxes on his smoke usually bought by out-of-town visitors.

The ordinance that Fisher says is hurting his business was adopted by the South Bay City Council on May 30 last year. At the same time, similar ordinances were adopted by the Belle Glade and Pahokee City Councils.

Finally, the county commission sewed up the entire Glades section by enforcing similar closing hours in bars and night clubs outside the city limits.

"Just won't work," Fisher said.

WSWN, Which Could Talk At Its Birth, Now Safely Reaches Fifth Birthday

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO REGULATE SOLICITATIONS

Steps to protect Chamber of Commerce members from solicitors were taken recently by the Chamber, when it appointed a special committee to screen applicants for solicitation permits.

The system, which will screen solicitations of all kinds, whether by Red Cross, March of Dimes, church organizations, magazine salesmen, or others, involves cooperation on the part of all merchants and other members of the Chamber of Commerce, who are urged to insist on the presentation by solicitors of C of C issued cards to indicate whether their solicitations are legitimate, not recommended, or rejected by the screening committee.

Under the system, all solicitors would be referred by Chamber of Commerce members to the central Chamber office, where their applications would be considered by the screening committee.

The screening committee, which is composed of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, is expected to eliminate solicitors whose business is not legitimate.

FRANTIC APPEAL

While it is not the policy of the Herald to print unverified letters, we make an exception today in following one of a frantic handwritten postcard from Tampa. The HERALD never claims to be entirely accurate in all its dealings; for try as we may, mistakes will happen to us, as they happen in all newspapers. But we could not help feeling somewhat saddened by this drastic communication:

"SHE! If you will address your paper to Washington Yawn at Box 371, Goulds, Fla., some of his family would like to see it. I don't want it; it has been sent here several times. Please stop it. I'm tired. It is sent to 8606 Mitchell, Tampa. (Please stop it.)"

Not flattered in the thought that we were hiring a recipient of our paper, we delightedly complied our subscription list, but found no paper going to Washington Yawn in Tampa. Eventually, however, we did locate a Pic, Washington E. Yawn, with a service address, San Francisco, California.

Incidentally, the Herald is sent free of charge to all local boys in the Service.

Others letters from boys in service to the HERALD have certainly led us to believe our paper was welcomed by the boys away from home.

Hurricanes, Cows, Rifles And Blow-ups Have Stalled But Never Slipped Its Progress

When Arnold Geissell of the Yale University Clinic published a book called "The Five Vets of Life," he and his colleagues had in mind children, not adults, and the progress of growing pains with the radio child have been no less exciting.

SWSN, The little station with the long reach, will celebrate its fifth birthday. Just that short a time ago, on October 3, 1947, WSWN broadcast its inaugural program from the stage of the old Everglades Theatre.

According to accounts in the Herald the following Friday, speakers included Mayor N. D. Lloyd, Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, Representative B. Elliott, and County Commissioner Paul Rogers. "During the program and between speakers," says the Herald, "the radio child, who was played by the High School band, Harvey's Routine Band (Miami) and a local Negro group, played a half-way mark, says the George Peters, turned the announcing chair over to Mr. May.

Seven Candidates In South Bay Race

Seven candidates for the South Bay City Council had their campaigns in full swing this pre-election week, with speeches and house-to-house canvasses of voters. Candidates in the race include three incumbents whose terms are expiring: M. J. Hardy, Mayor, Melvin Herring, and J. C. Summerlin councilmen; as well as J. L. Brown, H. L. Delaney, and S. J. Next Tuesday is polling date at City Hall, where 396 registered voters will decide which three of the seven men they wanted to represent them on the City Council.

WELCOME TO NEW GENERATIONS

Population growth is like the weather—there doesn't seem to be much that anybody can do about it. The world's human population is soaring. There were fewer than one and three-quarter billion people on earth in 1912. Today there are nearly two and a half billion, and by the end of this century there will be over four billion. The world is currently adding to its population at the rate of 60,000 to 70,000 new human beings each day, and the rate is increasing. No expert is needed to tell us that, so far as the foreseeable future is concerned, feeding, clothing, and keeping so many people reasonably happy is going to be a problem. Our own country can handle what it can be met.

A century or more ago a large percentage of people labored in agriculture. If theoretical planners had stepped in in those days and forced the productive processes into a fixed "orderly" pattern we would probably have been struggling with famine by now. Fortunately we were free to invent, devise and scheme new ways. We were free to leave our farms and get jobs in the cities where some of us figured out unbreakable machines to do the work of ten men on the farm. Tractors, trucks, reapers, combines, gangplows, cultivators—implements began to roll off the assembly lines by the tens of thousands. American agriculture rose on a new look. For the first time in history farmers could raise their heads above sheer drudgery.

Farming has become a scientific and competitive business. Because of the machines, constantly better farming practices and rising production are inevitable. Upland food, cotton, corn or strip farming, and soil conservation are routine practices to the modern farmer.

This American agricultural revolution is our welcome to the new people who will be crowding onto this old globe in the years to come. Other nations that fear the way of free markets, free competition and a maximum of individual liberty, will do well to heed our example.

HERALD MAIL BOX

This column is for Herald readers to express their opinions on questions of the day. They are not necessarily the opinions of this paper.

Sirs: To curb moral delinquency let people job a church and be baptized any day. This is important to be relegated to every day a week. Joining a church is a personal matter between the person and God, it does not have to be made into a public show. Many people are self-conscious about doing things in public and for this reason do not join.

Our ministers are indifferent about these people.

MAN OF THE YEAR TO BE HONORED IN TAMPA

Florida's current "Man of the Year" in Agriculture will be honored by the Florida Chain Store Council, meeting in Tampa on October 17.

He is Harry Wood, of Tallahassee, supervisor of agricultural education in Florida who has been selected by Progressive Farmer magazine as the state's leading contributor to farm progress. He and Mrs. Wood will be flown to Tampa in the private plane of Winn and Lovett Grocery Company for the 1952 annual meeting of the retail-chain store executives.

The vocational agricultural expert, a native of Florida and for many years a leading figure in the state's rural youth movement, will be introduced by Mel Ellis, of Jacksonville, president of the Chain Store Council. He will be the third "Man of the Year" to be honored by the chain association.

Paul Beckman, of Jacksonville, who was presented with a trophy plaque in 1950, and Loring Rouse, of Sarasota, having been the second guest at last year's convention.

This year's honoree has been described by Progressive Farmer as a "scientist with an outport." He has been credited with having increased materially the production of citrus fruit in the Florida citrus industry.

survivors include his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Eggleston, Belle Glade, his uncle, Bill Eggleston, and an aunt, Mrs. E. W. Lyons, also of this city, and three other aunts, Mrs. Richard Nelson, Florida City; Miss Mary Eggleston, Mobile, and Mrs. H. C. Winne, Mobile.

Last Friday, according to a report from the Palm Beach Post, five West Palm Beach policemen were charged with beating an Air Force sergeant "virtually to death" when they arrested him after an altercation in a bar.

This is the kind of news that is always very embarrassing to police departments, and it is especially embarrassing in this case because the Air Force is concerned, feeling, clothing, and keeping so many people reasonably happy is going to be a problem. Our own country can handle what it can be met.

A number of people responded, last week to the offer made by the director of the County Vocational System to establish evening classes for adults here. In the event sufficient people want them, subjects to be offered include bookkeeping, shorthand and typing.

Classes will be set up for two evening sessions a week, to be taught by local high school teachers.

Frank O. Hobson, principal of Belle Glade schools, urges all adults who are interested in the training to drop him a postcard at the school, indicating which subjects they would like to study.

Only adults 16 years of age or over are eligible for the evening classes, which will not be available to high school students.

A solo by Mrs. Y. B. Beal, was offered by Pat Tatum. Mrs. J. Marvin Unwin, representing the church, appeared before the audience garbed in a white robe. She told what meant to the church through the years; the establishment of homes for the poor, hospitals for the sick, and places of refuge for the unfortunate.

Following a solo by Rachel Collier, Mrs. William Theibaud and the cradle roll mothers entered and took their places. Theibaud sang "Babies Dear, Babies Fair." Each baby was given a pink rose by Janet Kirk, who was groomed in a pink dress trimmed with white lace.

Members being promoted to Primary Department included Eleanor Collier, Jo Ellen Huddelst, Cheryl Knight, Karen Harris, Lorraine Hollingsworth, Carol Hunter, Harold Hughes, Billy Rines and Scotty Markham.

They appeared in white graduation caps and gowns, and sang "Happy Graduation Day." The Rev. Griffin announced a drinking fountain will be erected in memory of baby Dennis Harris, the late son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Harris.

OUTDOOR FLORIDA
By Herb Mosher
Rattlesnakes are biting too many people above the knee, and over and over so-called "snake-proof" boots which are offered to hunters by dealers at prices which should provide something better and safer! Now, with Ross Allen, greatest snake man on earth, in the hospital, suffering from an over-the-knee rattlesnake bite, it is high time that sportsmen were up and secured proper hunting gear for this Fall's activities. Not long ago a prominent sportsman named Huff, of St. Petersburg, was hit by a rattlesnake over his knee, and well over the top of his high 16-inch hunting boots. Huff died! He had stepped on the tail of the rattlesnake while hunting, during a recent hunting season, and the angry snake gnashed him in the hip, above his knee. He spent a terrible two weeks in the hospital, suffering agonies, before he went on to the Happy Hunting Ground.

grew up in Palm Beach County, attended schools in West Palm Beach, and went hunting in this part of the state when game was really plentiful. On any drive out from Jupiter to Lighthouse Point, Huff would see many wild turkeys; often they were crossing the road, or just wandering about. Huff would see the honey-meat (today) place their hives! Anyhow, in those days all hunters who had good sense wore metal-mesh leggings. These extended from below the ankle permitting the use of comfortable, low shoes) to about a foot, or more, over the knee. The leggings were light in weight, but very strong, and absolutely snake-proof.

With a snake an outfit you can walk right up to a rattlesnake, step on him, kick him in the teeth, stamp on him, and to end to England to get new leggings. For the source of supply has disappeared, apparently, in these "modern" times when things are supposed to be so very much better. Phooey! For these so-called "modern" times when even snake men of world renown don't wear protection as good as every one wore, hunting back in the 20s, and earlier—anyhow, Capt. Merlin "Old Conqueror" Mitchell, who has a tackle shop in Orlando, and who tells me he sold "well over 100 pairs of these metal-mesh leggings" now advises that he cannot get any to sell this autumn! Unless any reader knows where such necessary equipment can be bought by hunters? If so, kindly advise this column at once. It may save lives. The hunting season is coming on, and it is great to go out and enjoy the outdoors knowing full well that if you ever find a rattlesnake, you're absolutely safe, and that said snake will be as much of a nuisance to you as it is to the rattlesnake. The Gardener's Corner

ANNUAL FLOWERS BEAUTIFY THE GARDEN
Flower gardens are attractive feeding grounds for a host of insects. Many diseases also affect flowering annuals. Because of the many different kinds of plants found in a flower garden it is difficult to lay down any specific rules for plant protection that would cover all cases that might arise. Furthermore, because many ornamentals are of little economic value, few studies have been made of the diseases and insect pests that will be encountered in a flower garden. A few general rules do apply, however. All dead plants of a previous crop should be removed at once. Pulling them out by the roots and burning them or removing them to another area will reduce the carry-over of plant diseases and insects that might affect the following plantings. Root-knot, which is recognized by extremely swollen and knobby roots, will ruin a flower garden. When this is found the garden must be located or a soil fumigation job is called for before using the infested soil. An application of ethylene dibromide by injection to a depth of six inches at the rate of one quart per 500 sq. ft. will destroy the nematode causing root knot and also will kill wireworms and cutworms in the soil. Capsules containing ethylene dibromide can be secured for the treatment of small areas. One should wait ten days after fumigation before planting the garden. If cutworms attack the seedlings, a poison bran bait containing toxaphene is effective against cutworms, grasshoppers, and mole crickets. Chlordane dusted or sprayed on ant hills is effective against the small ants that sometimes carry away small seeds.

LEGAL NOTICES
Notice is hereby given to section 106, Florida Statutes, in the County of Palm Beach, Florida, that the following is a true and correct copy of the petition for the appointment of a receiver for the estate of the late J. H. Kohn, deceased, as filed in the Court of the County of Palm Beach, Florida, on the 2nd day of September, 1952.

CONCERT SUNDAY
during the two-hour hour that it performed.
Local High School Bandmaster Alan Drake, a regular member of the band, was soloist in the von Weber Concertino, and from the first melifluous opening notes about the notes of his instrument, the clarinet. At the conclusion of the piece, in which solo and orchestra were happily blended, Conductor Austrian gracefully yielded his baton to Sgt. Drake, who led the band in two selections, a modern arrangement of Rimski-Korsakov's "Hymn to the Sun," and the well-known "Under the Double Eagle" march.

At intermission, Capt. John Hooker, head of Company E, told the audience of Company E's need for additional recruits in order not to lose the band. "Most of you know what the Guard can do for you boys," he said, "and we need more men to bring it up to strength."
Capt. Hooker, inviting the audience to watch the drills any Monday evening at the Legion Hall, compared National Guard training with that received in regular army units.

He paid tribute to the band, which has been acclaimed as the best of its kind in the southeastern U.S.A.
Following Capt. Hooker's brief talk, the band played the lively "Amaparo Rock" by Texidor, and a trumpet and drum solo with band accompaniment. Afterwards, Dubussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" was its spell for listeners who through the windows could see cumulous clouds in a blue sky after rain.

The Finale of the Dvorak symphony was equally well played.
Concluding selection was Berlin's "God Bless America."
Recordings of the performances were made with the high school's recording equipment.

3rd Army Inspectors
"This is the best National Guard band in this part of the country," said Luther Jones on Sunday afternoon, at the conclusion of the concert at the high school auditorium. Speaking before the large audience, Mr. Jones thanked the band and its conductor on behalf of the Glades residents, and invited them back for other performances. Mr. Jones informed his case about the best that can be done is to apply a "snake-proof" formula that will control as many possible of the insects and diseases that may be expected in the ordinary garden. The dust can be applied with one of the small cylindrical hand dusters of some kind, or a light coverage over all of the plant rather than "heavy application" would be made every week for the best results. The following formula has been found quite satisfactory for most purposes on flowering annuals and on roots of woody plants:

Dusting sulphur 75 lbs.
Parate 10 lbs.
Lan arsenate 10 lbs.
Camxox 4 lbs.
Total 100 lbs.

In addition a 5 percent solution of DDT can be dusted on when leaf eating insects are particularly troublesome, or a 1 percent TEPP dust can be used against aphids. This last dust is very toxic and gardeners should use it only with considerable care not to breathe or ingest the dust.

SOCIAL SECURITY REPRESENTATIVE TO BE HERE OCTOBER 9

Every worker or self-employed man or woman should know what social security means to him and to his family. According to R. C. Gehrkman, manager of the West Palm Beach office of the Social Security Administration, there are two times when such information is very important:
One, when a worker arrives at age 65, he should obtain information from his nearest social security office immediately.
Two, when a worker or self-employed person dies, someone in his family should obtain the social security office immediately so that there may be no loss of benefits to his surviving family.

"Remember these two times for action," Mr. Gehrkman summarized, "by the worker or self-employed person when he reaches 65, and by some member of his family when he dies. This individual action will avoid possible loss of benefits."
If there are any questions anyone wants answered, the Social Security Administration will be at the Florida State Employment Office on October 9, at 9:30 a. m.

LARGER CORN ACREAGE FOR LIVESTOCK FEED SUGGESTED FOR 1953
If they follow the recommendations of the Florida Agricultural Outlook Committee, Floridians will plant 660,000 acres of field corn in 1953, an increase of 18,000 acres over this year's acreage.

The outlook group pointed to the need for more feed for Florida's increasing numbers of livestock as the main reason for its recommendation for larger acreage of this crop in 1953. It suggested that 500,000 acres be planted alone and that 160,000 acres be interplanted with peas, beans, cowpeas, or velvet beans.

Corn that received adequate nitrogen withstood the destructive drought of May, June, and July, better than corn that received very little fertilizer and adapted hybrids have produced notably higher yields than common field corn, the committee emphasized in recommending use of hybrids and adequate fertilizer, nitrogen especially, said farmers will plant 660,000 acres of field corn in 1953, an increase of 18,000 acres over this year's acreage.

Worth Protecting

Leaflets like this have been distributed throughout the state to enlist public interest in forest fire prevention. Printed specially for local use, these leaflets are some of the many forest protection tools available through the newly organized Florida Forest Industries committee with headquarters in Tallahassee.

"We hope this campaign will remind every man, woman and child of the importance of protecting our forest resources from fire," said Owens McDonnell, of Tallahassee, chairman of the committee representing all segments of the state's wood-dependent industries. "The cooperation of every citizen is required to stop our unnecessary and wasteful fire damage."

Florida's newly organized Forest Industries Committee today endorsed an intensive educational campaign designed to help reduce the state's costly forest fire losses which in 1951 were the highest in the Nation.

More than 90,000 pieces of literature, including fire prevention posters, cartoon booklets and mailing pieces have been distributed by the forest industries in Florida this year.

The Florida materials carry the slogan, "Keep Florida Green." Featured in the colorful literature is an eye-catching photograph of a pine tree with the words, "Worth Protecting." This emphasizes that woods fires kill seedling trees that should be protected to provide future timber needs.

In 1951 forest fires burned 1,561,388 acres of woodland. This loss, caused by 25,392 fires, was the highest reported by any state. The fact that one-third of the Nation's fire losses occurred in Florida points up the need for the grass roots forest protection educational campaign.

SOUTH BAY SCHOOL BUS HIT MIDDAY AFTERNOON

A school bus which had stopped adjacent to the Frank Wilson home at Hudson's Farm on State Road 80 to discharge children, was involved in an accident on Monday afternoon about 4:15, when a car driven by Bernard Meyer of Hillsboro ran into the rear of the bus.

Highway Patrolman Joseph Paul Bertram, who investigated the accident, said that about $75 damage was done to the front of the car, and the paint scratched off the rear bumper of the bus. Negro children riding in the bus were shaken, but und hurt.

The driver of the car, who was pulling a house trailer behind him, had evidently slowed down but was unable to stop, the patrolman said. Meyer was given a "written warning."
